

I enjoyed taking the hackerrank skills test. I think the capacity in which this class helped my skills in this exam was mainly with syntax and language familiarization. On my test I had to complete a problem with function inheritance which thankfully I have prior knowledge from other classes and working on my senior project. However the other problem had to do with implementing getters and setters which I found much more to speed with the elements we learned in class. Overall I enjoyed taking the test with JavaScript and found the user interface of the test friendly and easy to navigate.
